At a special town meeting in Norway Hall, Saturday afternoon it was voted to raise the sum of $3,000 for a tractor-grader and take that amount from the contingent fund.

Representatives of two tractor companies explained the merits of their respective machines and offered to demonstrate at the convenience of the selectmen.

The offers were accepted and the tractors will be given a practical work-out before a purchase is made. Something heavy for road making and snow breaking is the type under consideration.

The Commercial Club met November 4, in the Assembly Room, at seven o'clock. The business meeting was called to order by President Albert Lafrance. The program was in charge of Mary Hill. The main part of the program was devoted to a style show. This was shown through the courtesy of Fred S. Brown and Z. L. Merchant. Different costumes were shown suitable for sport, business, school, afternoon, and evening. The models were Beatrice Gallant, Lila Emerson, Mildred Gallant, Marion Thomas, Sam Favor, Dolor Lafrance and Daniel Dulka, Jr. During the evening the spectators were entertained by Violet Upton, who sang a solo; Esther Ray, who gave a piano solo; and a trio composed of Dolor Lafrance, Albert Lafrance and Francis Noble. The program was concluded by chorus singing.

The Senior French Class of Norway High School will meet on Wednesday night in the high school building. Miss Thibodeau will give a lecture on her experiences in France, and after the lecture, the students will be allowed to ask questions concerning the country. The first part of the evening will be devoted to singing and business transactions. All conversation will be in the French language.

Activities will be renewed between Norway and Paris, Saturday, at the fair grounds. All students who are able to go to the game should do so, as a large student body encourages the team and gives them a greater incentive to win. A suggestion: all students on the sidelines should group together, instead of running up and down the field. In previous games this year, the cheering has not been promoted, because the cheer-leader only had a small group of scholars before him or her, the rest of the students being spread out. If everybody gets together and cheers, it will encourage the team; but if just a few desultory cheers are heard, the effect is discouraging rather than encouraging.

Although our first game with Paris was a rather sad affair, this game should be a different story. The team in the last few weeks has been coming along at a fast pace, and a Paris scalp should be no great surprise.

The gymnasium floor was finished two or three weeks ago. It is a great improvement over the old floor, being much smoother. The gym looks fifty percent better inside, since the floor has been finished. It will be found much easier to hold parties in the gym, as a smooth floor is quite necessary in playing the different games and dancing.

NORWAY NURSING SERVICE

The Norway Nursing Service committee held its November meeting, Tuesday evening and first plans were made for launching the annual Christmas Seal Sale, which [illegible] maintain the service.

The public health nurse, Mrs. Marion F. Oakes, R. N., was in town two days last week, and worked in the Chapel school and the Swift's Corner school, and finished inspection in both. The teachers gave excellent cooperation and were very pleased that both schools had earned a modern health crusade certificate and on each was a blue seal, which means that each school had done the health chores for two years. The pupils are beginning health chores again this year and are planning to add the gold seal to their certificates. The teachers are using the new Health Habit Charts for class rooms which Miss Buck, from the Maine Public Health Association, introduced into the schools this year. There will be a nurse in town Tuesday and Wednesday of next week for further work, and will be at the home of Mrs. George Robertson on the corner. The Well Baby Conference will be Wednesday afternoon.

Astronomer's Long Range Forecast For Total Eclipses

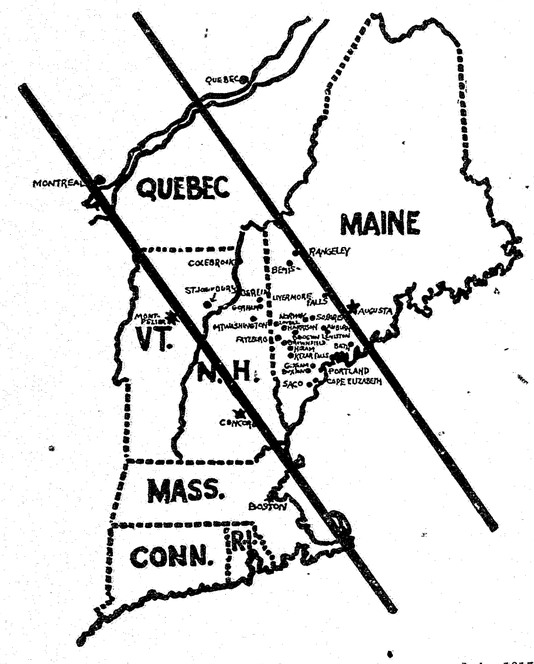

DARK PARALLEL LINE SHOWS BELT OF TOTALITY

On August 31st, 1932, our local territory (southwestern Maine) will be favored with a total eclipse of the sun.

Total solar eclipses are rare in any locality on the globe.

On January 24th, 1925 there occurred a total eclipse at New Haven, Conn., which lasted 2 minutes. In 1932 the central shadow line in the path of totality passes near Mt. Washington, N. H., and continues through Fryeburg, East Baldwin, Buxton and Saco, Me., eastern projection of Massachusetts, then out to sea.

The dark parallel lines in the figure, represent the bounds of totality by the moon's shadow. Singularly enough, the bounds of the path, which is some 120 miles wide, is outlined by the positions of the capitols of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, also by Montreal, Canada.

Norway and South Paris are within 30 miles of the center of the path. The chances for a clear sky, according to records kept for years, in this region at the latter part of August is 50-50.

The duration of time for a solar totality averages about 3 minutes, but the 1932 total eclipse is expected to last 6 1-4 minutes, at 3.30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, at an altitude of 33 degrees. On June 16th, 1806, occurred the last total eclipse of the sun, except the New Haven, in 1925 which lasted 4 1-2 minutes.

There is only one more opportunity to observe a total solar eclipse in this country before the beginning of the 21st century, except that which will occur in the state of Georgia in 1970. The maximum number of eclipses (total and partial) in a year can only be 7. They must be either 5 solar (of the sun) and 2 luna (of the moon) or else 4 solar and 3 luna. Seven eclipses a year is of occasional occurance; they occurred in 1917 and 1926 and will happen again in 1935.

Tables of future total solar eclipses are compiled for all of the 20th century and into the 21st century, up to June 25th, 2150 with a duration of time of totality of 7 min., 15 seconds, and also one of July 5th of the year 2168, with a duration of 7 minutes, 28 seconds. The moon's shadow of the former will pass over the Pacific Ocean and the latter over the southern part of the Indian Ocean near Madras.

Second Orchard Survey Requested

Six orchard men in South Paris and vicinity have recently submitted an application to the State Fruit Contact Committee for a survey to determine the possibility of starting a cooperative packing plant in an area which might include Norway, South Paris, Waterford, Oxford and part of Otisfield.

This is the second survey to be started in the county. The first survey covered the area of West Paris, Sumner, Woodstock, and Greenwood.

Following the North Paris meeting, the Fruit Growers in the South Paris and Norway Area concluded that they were in a different section covered by separate shipping points and consequently would need to initiate a survey in this South Paris area.

A meeting scheduled for next Thursday, November 13, at 7:30 p. m., is planned to call out all fruit growers in the area concerned as an added help in determining the possibility and desirability of further steps should the survey show possibilities. This action is in accordance with the fruit contact committee and the recommendations of the Federal Farm Board who believe that a careful and painstaking survey of apple marketing conditions in Maine should precede any attempt to form cooperative associations. Mr. Atherton, Extension Marketing Specialist, Orono, will assist in making the survey.

ORDWAY GROVE

There seems to be no general interest abroad regarding the saving of Ordway's Grove. Up to the present time, little comment has been heard. A few express the idea that it would be nice to save it, others say if the owner can sell it, it is good business for him to do so. One man from away writes he will be one of sixty to contribute $25.00 toward the purchase of same, if the town will use it for a park. No letters or articles have been received for publication.

Rehearsals for the American Legion Auxiliary drama, "A Thief in the Night", have started and the committee in charge is well pleased with the initial showing made by the cast. This is a very amusing and interesting dramatic comedy and the parts have been well assigned, a successful and enjoyable production is assured.

In a note from Mrs. Eugene E. Andrews, received Tuesday morning, she says: "I am pleased to say that Gene is gaining. He has been a very sick man, but now seems on the road to recovery." His address is Baker Memorial Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, instead of Waltham as we stated last week.

Woman's Club

Pleasantly Entertained Tuesday Afternoon at Legion Hall

The Norway Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon at Legion Hall, with an unusually large attendance, and in addition to a large quota of members, there were many guests, who enjoyed an outstanding program. The program was opened by President, Mrs. Grace M. Brown, with community singing and the Club Collect. Several matters of business were brought to the attention of the members, for their consideration at the next meeting. The date for the semi-annual Trash and Treasure sale was announced for Saturday, November 15th, at the Buick sales rooms, commencing at 9 o'clock.

In introducing the "entertainers" of the afternoon, Rev. and Mrs. Olin B. Tracy, of Skowhegan, Mrs. Brown referred to their close association to the people of the community a few years ago, when Mr. Tracy was pastor of the Congregational Church, and Mrs. Tracy contributed to his success with her singing. They were both given a warm hand. Mrs. Tracy opened this part of the program with a group of three songs, "The Day is Over"; "Thank God for the Sunshine"; and "Butterflies and Clover."

Mr. Tracy responded to his introduction, by expressing his pleasure in coming "back" to Norway where he held his first pastorate. His address for the afternoon was an informal talk on his impressions and experiences from his trip this past summer to Europe, where he and Mrs. Tracy attended the International Conference of Congregational Churches at Bornemouth, England, and the Good Will Tour to London. He took his hearers with word pictures on the trip and explained so vividly, that one could picture to themselves many of the things he saw and told of. A visit during one night in the slums of London, was an awful reminder of the days in New York when there was the open saloon, and he expressed himself as being thankful for the change in conditions, with an urge for more law enforcement to still better conditions.

While talking of Paris, he asked Mrs. Tracy to give a group of three French songs, which she explained were sketches of Paris by Kathleen Manning. Mr. Tracy resumed his talk on London and the big conference, and closed with his impressions as he neared New York, at 4 o'clock in the morning, with the Statue of Liberty holding up the hand to welcome the traveler. He held his audience from the start to the finish with the closest attention. Mrs. Tracy closed the program with three songs, "Children of the Moon"; "When Mother Sings" and "A Birthday."

A social hour followed and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy were given an informal reception, as was Mrs. Tracy's friend from Skowhegan, who accompanied her on the piano. The hospitality committee served tea.

At the next meeting the members of the Barton and Browning Reading Clubs, the W. C. T. U. and the Norway Lake Mothers' Club are invited.

W. C. T. U. LUNCH

The W. C. T. U. will meet at Community Hall, Wednesday, Nov. 12, with luncheon at one o'clock. The topic is "Temperance and Missions." It is expected that Mrs. Gertrude Stevens Leavitt of Portland and Mrs. Elizabeth Morton of South Paris will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hammond, Mrs. F. A. Barker and Harlow Adkins were in Turner, Sunday, to call on Miss Clara Schnuer.

OBSERVED GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. Gammon is a native of Norway, youngest son of Seba and Jane Frost Gammon. He recently celebrated his 78th birthday. He is still active about the place which has been their home for 48 years and takes keen interest in the affairs of the community.

Mrs. Gammon, who is four years younger than her husband, was born in Hebron, the youngest daughter of Azel and Fancina Bumpus. The first two years of their married life was spent in Norway village, both being employed in the shoe factory. In May, 1882, they purchased the Newhall farm in Pike Hill neighborhood and applied themselves to developing the place. The house, once an old wood-colored structure, has been renovated outside and in and comfortably furnished with modern conveniences; while the grounds outside are among the most attractive seen along the countryside.

To them three children have been born, Herbert Tilton died in infancy. Alice Drucilla married in 1909 the Rev. Charles E. Brooks, a clergyman of the Methodist church. Frank Elbridge, the youngest, married H. Alice Field of Paris. They with their two small children, reside on the old home place, carrying on the farm and caring for the parents since they retired from active labor.

Both are active members of Norway Grange, Mrs. Gammon having been chaplain for several years. Mr. Gammon is a member of Norway Lodge of Odd Fellows and his wife is one of the three remaining charter members of the Norway Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tucker, Stoneham, Mass.
Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Nichelson, Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Joseph Woods of Portland was at her son's, Byron Woods' Wednesday evening.

Dr. A. W. Easton, C. C. Hunt, Robert F. Bickford of this town and Leslie Metcalf of Franklin, Mass., are after deer in the Allagash this week. No word has been sent to the home folks and all surmise the hunters are slaying their quota and will return with a carload.

There are a few irrespnsible boys of high school age driving cars about the village in a decidedly reckless manner. Aside from staving up their cars needlessly, the lives of people on the street at times are in danger. A young man's time is never so valuable but what he can drive at a safe rate of speed down Main street. If he feels differently about it his license should be suspended.

The old familiar crab apple tree at the corner of Deering and Main Streets, was laid low, Thursday morning and no more the sweet scent of apple blossoms in springtime will be wafted on the breeze around the corner. The Sampson house is being put on skids and will soon start on its journey to its new location on Deering Street. The ell has already arrived there and Mrs. Annie Sampson kept house and journeyed along with it to its new destination.

Buddy Chick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chick, celebrated his fourth birthday Tuesday, Nov. 4, at the home of h's grandparents, 4 Paris Street. Guests were Dorothy Merrill, Agnes, Arthur and Junior Kinney. An attractive lunch was served, consisting of heart shaped chicken sandwiches, tiny biscuits, bananas and cream, fancy cookies, fruit punch, ice cream and cake. The birthday cake was prettily decorated in pink and white with four candles. Many gifts were received. Games were played and pictures taken of the little group by his uncle, Francis Chick, who is in the photography business.

Autos Collided Near Bryant's Pond

One South Paris man was sent to the hospital and three were bruised and shaken up as the result of an auto crash near Bryant's Pond about 6:30, Thursday night. Ernest M. Millett was badly cut by glass and taken to the Central Manie General hospital, Geo. F. Eastman and Fred Bailey received first aid treatment from Dr. Willard at the home of Mrs. Emery. A. J. Cormont, well known as "Gus" at the Paris Candy Shoppe was driving and escaped with several cuts on his knee and a bruise near the left temple. He was treated by Dr. Stewart after reaching South Paris.

The accident occurred on the curve near the junction of the state road No. 26 with route No. 120. The South Paris party in an Essex sedan was on the road to attend a Canton meeting at Rumford, when a Studebaker driven by Victor Gauvin of Lewiston forced them off the black road and struck head on. The sedan owned by Mr. Eastman was badly wrecked, while the Studebaker received only minor injuries.

Occupants of the sedan alleged Gauvin was driving at high speed with only one headlight and on the wrong side of the highway. In the Norway Municipal Court, Friday morning Gauvin was charged with reckless driving by highway police officer, Eugene Stevens, who investigated the accident. He pleaded not guilty, but was adjudged guilty by Judge Wm. F. Jones, a fine of $25 and costs was imposed. The respondent appealed, but later retracted and paid.

The second in a series of musical evenings was held in the Congregational church, Sunday evening. An inspiring program was given and included familiar hymns, a vocal solo by Nicholas Mather and music by an orchestra, Mrs. Helen Shaw, piano, Miss Dorothy Dean, violin, Clarence Huff, trumpet, Howard Shaw, clarinet and James Mason, trombone. The pastor, Rev. R. H. Colby, gave a short address, "The Wolf at the Door".

Mrs. Charles L. Buck, driving her car across Market Square from High St., to Pine Street, and Miss Eileen McDonald coming in her auto from the direction of Norway, collided near the Pythian Block on Pine Street corner, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Buck's car was tipped over and some glass broken, while Miss McDonald's car suffered only slight damage to the mud guards. Both drivers were shaken up and not seriously hurt.

Stereopticon slides on the Passion Play at Oberammergau will be shown at the Baptist Church, Sunday evening, Nov. 9, at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. and Mrs. Donald Green of Portland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Green, Sunday.

An orchestra has been formed, consisting of the following: Violins: Ina [illegible] Elizabeth Ariel; saxophones: Wilfred Cherry, Edwin Barker; clarinet: Harold Holman; banjo: Ralph Dunham; drums, Burnell Burnell; piano, Miss Wood.

The drama which is to be given at the fair is a Dutch play, and the costumes and scenery are being made by the Dramatic Club.

The boys' basket ball schedule for the coming season is as follows:

Feb. 13 Gould Academy at Bethel.
Feb. 20 Oxford at Norway.
Feb. 27 South Paris at Norway.
Mar. 6 Bridgton at Bridgton.

The Commercial Club met November 4, in the Assembly Room, at seven o'clock. The business meeting was called to order by President Albert Lafrance. The program was in charge of Mary Hill. The main part of the program was devoted to a style show. This was shown through the courtesy of Fred S. Brown and Z. L. Merchant. Different costumes were shown suitable for sport, business, school, afternoon, and evening. The models were Beatrice Gallant, Lila Emerson, Mildred Gallant, Marion Thomas, Sam Fave, Dolor Lafrance and Daniel Dulea, Jr. During the evening the spectators were entertained by Violet Upton, who sang a solo; Esther Ray, who gave a piano solo; and a trio composed of Dolor Lafrance, Albert Lafrance and Francis Noble. The program was concluded by chorus singing.

The Senior French Class of Norway High School will meet on Wednesday night at the high school building. Miss Thibodeau will give a lecture on her experiences in France, and after the lecture, the students will be allowed to ask questions concerning the country. The first part of the evening will be devoted to singing and business transactions. All conversation will be in the French language.

Hostilities will be renewed between Norway and Paris, Saturday, at the fair grounds. All students who are able to go to the game should do so, as a large student body encourages the team and gives them a greater incentive to win. A suggestion: all students on the sidelines should group together, instead of running around the field. In previous games this year, the cheering has not been pronounced, because the cheer-leader only had a small group of scholars before him or her, the rest of the students being spread out. If everybody gets together and cheers, it will encourage the team; but if just a few desultory cheers are heard, the effect is discouraging rather than encouraging.

Although our first game with Paris was a rather sad affair, this game should be a different story. The team in the last few weeks has been coming along at a fast rate, and a Paris scalp should be no great surprise.

The gymnasium floor was finished two or three weeks ago. It is a great improvement over the old floor, being much smoother. The gym looks fifty percent better inside, since the floor has been finished. It will be found much easier to hold parties in the gym, as a smooth floor is quite necessary in playing the different games and dancing.

Assembly Junior High, Friday, Oct. 31:

Miss Boyd, accompanist.
Speaker, Account of the painted desert, petrified forest and vegetation of the California desert regions.....L. M. Carroll
School Song, Miss Wood accompanist.

NORWAY NURSING SERVICE

The Norway Nursing Service committee held its November meeting, Tuesday evening and first plans were made for launching the annual Christmas Seal Sale, which helps maintain the service.

The public health nurse, Mrs. Marion F. Oakes, R. N., was in town two days last week, and worked in the Chapel school and the Swift's Corner school, and finished inspection in both. The teachers gave excellent cooperation and were very pleased that both schools had earned a modern health crusade certificate and on each was a blue seal, which means that each school had done the health chores for two years. The pupils are beginning health chores again this year and are planning to add the gold seal to their certificates. The teachers are using the new Health Habit Charts for class rooms which Miss Buck, from the Maine Public Health Association, introduced into the schools this year. There will be a nurse in town Tuesday and Wednesday of next week for further work, and will be at the home of Mrs. George Robertson on the corner. The Well Baby Conference will be Wednesday afternoon.

DARK PARALLEL LINE SHOWS BELT OF TOTALITY

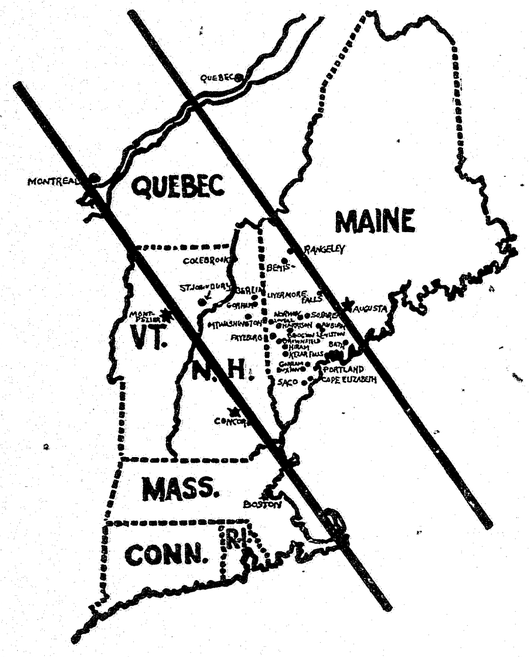

On August 31st, 1932, our local territory (southwestern Maine) will be favored with a total eclipse of the sun.

Total solar eclipses are rare in any locality on the globe.

On January 24th, 1925 there occurred a total eclipse at New Haven, Conn., which lasted 2 minutes. In 1932 the central shadow line in the path of totality passes near Mt. Washington, N. H., and continues through Fryeburg, East Baldwin, Buxton and Saco, Me., eastern projection of Massachusetts, then out to sea.

The dark parallel lines in the figure, minutes, at 3.30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, at an altitude of 33 degrees. On June 16th, 1806, occurred the last total eclipse of the sun, except the New Haven, in 1925 which lasted 4 1-2 minutes.

There is only one more opportunity to observe a total solar eclipse in this country before the beginning of the 21st century, except that which will occur in the state of Georgia in 1970. The maximum number of eclipses (total and partial) in a year can only be 7. They must be either 5 solar (of the sun) and 2 luna (of the moon) or else 4 solar and 3 luna. Seven eclipses a year is of occasional occurance; they occurred in 1917 and 1926 and will happen again in 1935.

represent the bounds of totality by the moon's shadow. Singularly enough, the bounds of the path, which is some 120 miles wide, is outlined by the positions of the capitols of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, also by Montreal, Canada.

Norway and South Paris are within 30 miles of the center of the path. The chances for a clear sky, according to records kept for years, in this region at the latter part of August is 50-50.

The duration of time for a solar totality averages about 3 minutes, but the 1932 total eclipse is expected to last 6 1-4

Solar eclipses always occur at new moon and luna eclipses at full moon.

Tables of future total solar eclipses are compiled for all of the 20th century and into the 21st century, up to June 25th, 2150 with a duration of time of totality of 7 min., 15 seconds, and also one of July 5th of the year 2168, with a duration of 7 minutes, 28 seconds. The moon's shadow of the former will pass over the Pacific Ocean and the latter over the southern part of the Indian Ocean near Madras.

Second Orchard Survey Requested

Six orchard men in South Paris and vicinity have recently submitted an application to the State Fruit Contact Committee for a survey to determine the possibility of starting a cooperative packing plant in an area which might include Norway, South Paris, Waterford, Oxford and part of Otisfield.

This is the second survey to be started in the county. The first survey covered the area of West Paris, Sumner, Woodstock, and Greenwood.

Following the North Paris meeting, the Fruit Growers in the South Paris and Norway Area concluded that they were in a different section covered by separate shipping points and consequently would need to initiate a survey in this South Paris area.

A meeting scheduled for next Thursday, November 13, at 7:30 p. m., is planned to call out all fruit growers in the area concerned as an added help in determining the possibility and desirability of further steps should the survey show possibilities. This action is in accordance with the fruit contact committee and the recommendations of the Federal Farm Board who believe that a careful and painstaking survey of apple marketing conditions in Maine should precede any attempt to form cooperative associations: Mr. Atherton, Extension Marketing. Specialist, Orono, will assist in making the survey.

ORDWAY GROVE

There seems to be no general interest abroad regarding the saving of Ordway's Grove. Up to the present time, little comment has been heard. A few express the idea that it would be nice to save it, others say if the owner can sell it, it is good business for him to do so. One man from away writes he will be one of sixty to contribute $25.00 toward the purchase of same, if the town will use it for a park. No letters or articles have been received for publication.

Rehearsals for the American Legion Auxiliary drama, "A Thief in the Night", have started and the committee in charge is well pleased with the initial showing made by the cast. This is a very amusing and interesting dramatic comedy and the parts have been well assigned, a successful and enjoyable production is assured.

In a note from Mrs. Eugene E. Andrews, received Tuesday morning, she says: "I am pleased to say that Gene is gaining. He has been a very sick man, but now seems on the road to recovery." His address is Baker Memorial Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, instead of Waltham as we stated last week.

Woman's Club

Pleasantly Entertained Tuesday Afternoon at Legion Hall

The Norway Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon at Legion Hall, with an unusually large attendance, and in addition to a large quota of members, there were many guests, who enjoyed an outstanding program. The program was opened by President, Mrs. Grace M. Brown, with community singing and the Club Collect. Several matters of business were brought to the attention of the members, for their consideration at the next meeting. The date for the semi-annual Trash and Treasure sale was announced for Saturday, November 15th, at the Buick sales rooms, commencing at 9 o'clock.

In introducing the "entertainers" of the afternoon, Rev. and Mrs. Olin B. Tracy, of Skowhegan, Mrs. Brown referred to their close association to the people of the community a few years ago, when Mr. Tracy was pastor of the Congregational Church, and Mrs. Tracy contributed to his success with her singing. They were both given a warm hand. Mrs. Tracy opened this part of the program with a group of three songs, "The Day is Over"; "Thank God for the Sunshine"; and "Butterflies and Clover."

Mr. Tracy responded to his introduction, by expressing his pleasure in coming "back" to Norway where he held his first pastorate. His address for the afternoon was an informal talk on his impressions and experiences from his trip this past summer to Europe, where he and Mrs. Tracy attended the International Conference of Congregational Churches at Bornemouth, England, and the Good Will Tour to London. He took his hearers with word pictures on the trip and explained so vividly, that one could picture to themselves many of the things he saw and told of. A visit during one night in the slums of London, was an awful reminder of the days in New York when there was the open saloon, and he expressed himself as being thankful for the change in conditions, with an urge for more law enforcement to still better conditions.

While talking of Paris, he asked Mrs. Tracy to give a group of three French songs, which she explained were sketches of Paris by Kathleen Manning. Mr. Tracy resumed his talk on London and the big conference, and closed with his impressions as he neared New York, at 4 o'clock in the morning, with the Statue of Liberty holding up the hand to welcome the traveler. He held his audience from the start to the finish with the closest attention. Mrs. Tracy closed the program with three songs, "Children of the Moon"; "When Mother Sings" and "A Birthday."

A social hour followed and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy were given an informal reception, as was Mrs. Tracy's friend from Skowhegan, who accompanied her on the piano. The hospitality committee served tea.

At the next meeting the members of the Barton and Browning Reading Clubs, the W. C. T. U. and the Norway Lake Mothers' Club are invited.

W. C. T. U. LUNCH

The W. C. T. U. will meet at Community Hall, Wednesday, Nov. 12, with luncheon at one o'clock. The topic is "Temperance and Missions." It is expected that Mrs. Gertrude Stevens Leavitt of Portland and Mrs. Elizabeth Morton of South Paris will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hammond, Mrs. F. A. Barker and Harlow Adkins were in Turner, Sunday, to call on Miss Clara Schnuer.

OBSERVED GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. Gammon is a native of Norway, youngest son of Seba and Jane Frost Gammon. He recently celebrated his 78th birthday. He is still active about the place which has been their home for 48 years and takes keen interest in the affairs of the community.

Mrs. Gammon, who is four years younger than her husband, was born in Hebron, the youngest daughter of Azel and Fancina Bumpus. The first two years of their married life was spent in Norway village, both being employed in the shoe factory. In May, 1882, they purchased the Newhall farm in Pike Hill neighborhood and applied themselves to developing the place. The house, once an old wood-colored structure, has been renovated outside and in and comfortably furnished with modern conveniences; while the grounds outside are among the most attractive seen along the countryside.

To them three children have been born, Herbert Tilton died in infancy. Alice Drucilla married in 1909 the Rev. Charles E. Brooks, a clergyman of the Methodist church. Frank Elbridge, the youngest, married H. Alice Field of Paris. They with their two small children, reside on the old home place, carrying on the farm and caring for the parents since they retired from active labor.

Both are active members of Norway Grange, Mrs. Gammon having been chaplain for several years. Mr. Gammon is a member of Norway Lodge of Odd Fellows and his wife is one of the three remaining charter members of the Norway Methodist Episcopal church.

Mrs. Joseph Woods of Portland was at her son's, Byron Woods' Wednesday evening.

Dr. A. W. Easton, C. C. Hunt, Robert F. Bickford of this town and Leslie Metcalf of Franklin, Mass., are after deer in the Allagash this week. No word has been sent to the home folks and all surmise the hunters are slaying their quota and will return with a carload.

There are a few irresponsible boys of high school age driving cars about the village in a decidedly reckless manner. Aside from staving up their cars needlessly, the lives of people on the street at times are in danger. A young man's time is never so valuable but what he can drive at a safe rate of speed down Main street. If he feels differently about it his license should be suspended.

The old familiar crab apple tree at the corner of Deering and Main Streets, was laid low, Thursday morning and no more the sweet scent of apple blossoms in springtime will be wafted on the breeze around the corner. Brains, Cash and Energy Work a Modern Industrial Revolution

Two years ago Walter S. Wyman, president of the New England Public Service Company, startled a meeting of the Maine Division of the New England Council in Portland by declaring that in his opinion Maine's greatest opportunity for industrial development lay in the textile industry.

Acting upon his faith Mr. Wyman has since presented New England with an outstanding example of what business leadership can accomplish.

Perhaps without Maine's entire realization of its meaning, and certainly without New England's appreciation of what was going on, an industrial revolution has taken place in Maine. To a degree, the independent industry, often out of touch with the economic changes, which were slowly encompassing its defeat, has become a unit in a group of industries managed by modern methods and in conformity with the dictates of alert and courageous business intelligence.

"Mr. Wyman and his associates were not slow to act."

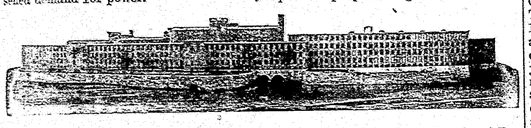

Today Maine Prospers

The story is that of the New England Public Service Company's efforts to maintain and develop the market for the products of its subsidiaries, chiefly the Central Maine Power Company. More than that, it is the story of industries saved from dissolution, payrolls maintained and increased instead of abolished, communities saved from economic loss—and these things by the leadership of a group headed by Mr. Wyman, and determined to capitalize the obvious fact that a power company can prosper as the area which it serves prospers.

Today it is interesting to note that in spite of the business depression this year employment and business activity have been good in Maine. Especially has employment been maintained in Maine's basic industries.

When Mr. Wyman told the Maine Council of his faith in the textile industry he based his statement on more than sentiment. For months, industrial engineers of the power companies which Mr. Wyman headed had been surveying Maine's possibilities, in an effort to plot the future course of Maine's economic growth as accurately as possible. The very fact that these engineers were in the field was in itself a tribute to a new type of industrial leadership in New England. It also, of course, exemplified a principle for which the New England Council stands—the application of fact-finding methods to business problems.

Backed by the opinions of his engineers, Mr. Wyman set out to rehabilitate ailing industries, the gradual decadence of which was already being felt in lessened demand for power.

The Edwards Mill in Augusta, Me., now owned by New England Industries, Inc., under whose management the mill is operating at 95 per cent of its normal capacity. This mill, located on the Kennebec River, is one of the group placed under one management by New England Industries.

Good Management Needed

Studying these mills, Mr. Wyman soon found two outstanding elements of difficulty—lack of adequate financing and obsolete equipment. Both reflected bad management. Realizing that the prosperity of the state, of the industries, and of the power companies was at stake, Mr. Wyman and his associates were not slow to act. At first through the New England Public Service Company and later through a new corporation, New England Industries, Inc., formed to aid and operate weak industries, a half dozen industries of major importance have been rehabilitated, a $6,000,000 paper mill has been built, and hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent for new machinery. The list:

1. Androscoggin Mills, Lewiston, voted to liquidate, June, 1926. New England Public Service Company acquired a majority interest. Mills now averaging 90 per cent. capacity operation, producing at the rate of 130,000 pounds of goods a week, operating 80,000 spindles and 2,400 looms, employing 1,100 persons and paying about $21,000 in wages every week.

2. The Edwards Mills, Augusta, in the fall of 1927 was operating at only three-quarters capacity. A majority of the stock was acquired by the Wyman interests and the mill is now running at an average of 95 per cent. of capacity, occasionally reaching 102 per cent. This mill has 68,000 spindles and 2,000 looms, produces 170,000 pounds of goods a week, employs 1,100 persons at a weekly payroll of about $18,500.

3. The Hill Manufacturing Company, Lewiston. Acquired late in 1928, this plant operates 88,000 spindles. 2,000 looms, and at present employs 600 persons. It is running at 82 per cent. of capacity.

4. The Bates Manufacturing Company, Lewiston. With a majority interest acquired in 1929, this plant is now said to be one of the best equipped mills in the United States. It not only operates 104,276 spindles and 1,900 looms, but also has facilities for yarn dyeing and the finishing of narrow piece goods. At present there are 1,100 employees and a payroll of $25,000 a week.

New England Industries, Inc., was organized in December, 1929, and at once took over the industrial securities held by the New England Public Service Corporation. Twenty-five per cent. of the money required to finance this new corporation came from the New England Public Service Corporation, the remainder from outside of New England. Walter Wyman was elected president of the new corporation.

Equipment Modernized

The equipment of the mills controlled by New England Industries, Inc., has been modernized $300,000 having been spent for new equipment for the Androscoggin Mills alone. The York Mills are also being brought up to date by expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars. In the interests of economy, the general offices of the Edwards, Androscoggin and Hill Mills have been combined in Augusta and George E. Spofford, formerly president of the Langley Mills in South Caroline, is in charge of the consolidated operations.

5. York Manufacturing Company, Saco. Acquired in 1930, this was the first company to be taken over after formation of New England Industries, Inc. The transaction comprised an exchange of stock.

6. Maine Seabord Paper Company, Bucksport. This is a new concern, the plant of which has just been completed. With capacity of 270 tons of newsprint a day, it will be one of the most modern mills in the world. Located on a deep water harbor, it will use water transportation for assembling raw materials and shipping finished products. It will consume 100,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric power a year, obtained by a direct line from the new Bingham hydro-electric station of the Central Maine Power Company. The power used will amount to one-third of the total output of the new 100,000 horsepower station. The Maine Seaboard Paper Company is a project of New England Industries, Inc.

7. Besides these, New England Industries has a financial interest in several other industries, including the Cushnoc Paper Company of Augusta.

Constant efforts are made to adapt production to market demand. Expert styling and aggressive selling are fundamental principles upon which success under Mr. Wyman's supervision has been achieved. All sales are handled through Bliss, Fabyan and Company, Boston.

Other activities of the Wyman public utilities are of the utmost importance. The companies which he directs have been outstanding for their application of research methods to the industrial development problems of the areas they serve.

An outstanding example was the industrial survey of 180 Maine towns begun by the New England Public Service Company in 1929 and completed after more than a year's work. As a result of this survey the industrial possibilities of the industrially important area of Maine were minutely charted to facilitate the development of both new and old industries and the securing of new ones.

Millions for Power Facilities

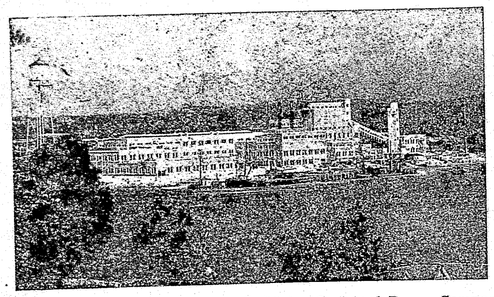

Equally notable have been the developments on which the Central Maine Power Company have spent millions of dollars. The company has almost completed its 100,000 horsepower hydro-electric station at Bingham, Me., which will probably be opened the first of next year. This project alone has provided employment for more than 2,000 men and has cost about $12,000,000. In the past few years the company has built a 27,000 horsepower station at Gulf Island near Lewiston, and an 18,000 horsepower station at Skowhegan. The floating power station of 27,000 horsepower, now being constructed on the old shipping board vessel "Jacona", will soon be ready for service at any point along the coast.

Power Sites Acquired

The developed and undeveloped water power on the Saco river at Biddeford has been purchased from the Pepperell Manufacturing Company by the Cumberland County Power and Light Company, one of the subsidiaries of the New England Public Service Company. This site has 50,000 horsepower available, developed and undeveloped.

Mr. Wyman has been instrumental in saving for Maine several other industries, one of which is the famous Bath Iron Works, in the reoganization of which he took part several years ago. His interest also extends into the field of agriculture. He has acquired a 1,000-acre experimental farm in Manchester, near Augusta. Here he raises fine poultry and cattle, and produces part of the milk supply of Augusta.

A native of Oakland, Me., Mr. Wyman was graduated from Tufts College with a degree in engineering in 1897. His first job was with the Maine Water Power Company, Waterville.

The new Bucksport mill of the Maine Seaboard Paper Company, owned by New England Industries, Inc. The mill will have an output of 270 tons of newsprint a day, and will use 100,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric power a year. It is situated on a deep water harbor, and will utilize water transportation extensively.

The season of lost and found gloves and mittens is at hand. A knit blue mitten, and a kid glove have been brought in for the collection of waiting articles.

We have been printing quite a little butter paper for customers lately. Do you not need some? We would like your order—any amount desired furnished.

Mrs. Edna Heim of Center Lovell called Tuesday to renew her subscription to the paper. Mrs. Heim plans to spend the winter at Center Lovell, which will be her first winter in Maine.

John Wight, South Paris is equipped for filing saws, sharpening skates and grinding shears. An intelligence ad. in this paper tells the story and directs attention to his new business.

R. D. Rauh of Boston was here Tuesday. He was on his way home from a hunting trip in the Rangeley region and reported seeing much game, but saw only a few birds. Mr. Rauh is an advertising man and puts on special advertising pages.

Millie Morse came in the other day. She was feeling badly because she had lost a nice fancy pink Eversharp pencil, tipped with gold—but none had been found. Later in the day she called again and in the meantime M. W. S[illegible] found the missing article and left it for the owner, who was made happy in possessing it again.

Walter S. Chandler of this [illegible] the Walter M. Chandler of W[illegible] the insurance man. Several [illegible] have been sent to the wrong [illegible] since the appointment of a successor to George Richardson, late of South Paris. In all cases the letters have been [illegible] over to the postmasters and [illegible] reached the right Chandler at W[illegible].

A. R. Clark of Bolster's Mills was in town, Monday, having delayed his journey to St. Petersburg, Fla., about a week. He expected to bundle the family into a car and whiz toward a sunny clime on Nov. 3, but plans were changed as the important date approached. They have enjoyed the summer in Maine and we hope to greet them again when they return with the birds.

Essay on Pants—Pants are made for men and not for women. Women are made for men and not for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, that makes a pair of pants. Pants are like molasses, they are thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold. There has been much discussion as to whether pants is singular or plural. It seems to us that when men wear pants it is plural, and when they don't wear them it is singular, if you want to make pants last, make the coat first.

STEAMED CLAMS AND HALLOWE'EN FUN

The Cook cottage on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee was the setting of a Hallowe'en party, Friday night, entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huff. The guests followed instructions in the invitations and wore Hallowe'en costumes or old fashioned garments.

Appropriate decorations were conspicuous about the cottage and a well stocked fire place added cheer and a trace of mystery to the occasion. Steamed clams were served. Place cards not only directed the guests, but each carried a fortune. Holiday favors were distributed.

After a round of fun and sports the guests settled down to dancing until a late hour. The party broke up with three cheers for the host and hostess and their helpers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spiller.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faneuf, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lovejoy, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. D. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spiller, Mr. and Mrs. Ronell Bicknell, Mr and Mrs. Edwin S. Gammon, Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey, Mrs. Ida Everett, Mrs. Mary Lewis, Mrs. Evis I. Cook, Mrs. Genie Thompson and daughter, Janet, and Marjorie Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Huff and Buddy, the surprise guest from Fort McKinley.

The last rehearsal for the third rank, the Knights of Pythias will work at Hanover, Saturday night is to be held after the regular meeting this Thursday evening. There should be a large attendance for plans are to be laid for transportation and to find how many will attend.

Methodist Episcopal

Rev. W. Winslow Lyon, minister. 10:30 morning worship; 12:00, church Sunday school; 7:00, "The Fool", evening song service and pastor's opening serial story; 6:15, Epworth Young People's Association.

Next Sunday evening the minister of the Methodist church is beginning his very interesting series of Sunday evening stories on the four act drama by Channing Pollock, entitled "The Fool". Very much has been said about this serial story, especially in the unique and dramatic way in which Rev. Lyon will present it. This story begins with a Christmas tree setting and very many of the folks and young folks of the church have persuaded the pastor to begin the series. The setting and plot of the story is laid in a wealthy city church, and the young minister is called a "Fool" because he was truly trying to follow Christ. There is an abundance of money and influence brought to bear upon the important characters of the drama. Rev. Mr. Lyon feels that here is a Sunday evening story that will bring out a very great number of people. It is intensely gripping, colorful and makes an appeal to any self-respecting intellect. There are times in the drama as given by Mr. Lyon when you will have to smile; then there are other moments when you will be subtly forced into more sombre attitudes. It is a great story. It has a great moral. The young people are all anxiously awaiting the opening sermon-story. If you miss the opening or background setting of the drama, then a good deal will be missed. There will be quartette singing, and a few special numbers. The new Sunday evening time at the Methodist church is 7 o'clock.

Next Sunday morning, Rev. Daniel B. Holt of the Maine Conference will be present with Mr. Lyon on the platform. Rev. Holt will deliver the message. Many old time friends of this beloved clergyman will be glad to welcome him to the Methodist pulpit.

It is no secret that under the personal direction of Rev. Mr. Lyon the members of the Methodist Dramatic Club are to present a one act comedy drama on the evening of Nov. 19, the day of the church fair, which is being held by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society. Much enthusiasm is rife in the club because of this event. Other special numbers will be given on this date.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their annual sale, Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 2:30 p. m. There will be a drama entertainment in the evening. The following committees have been appointed to have charge of the various booths:

Fancy Booth—Mrs. Elizabeth Joslin and Mrs. Merle Brown.
Kitchen Booth—Mrs. Grace Calef. Mrs. Eva Smith.
Vegetable Booth—Mrs. Gladys Noyes, Mrs. Elizabeth Gammon.

Collects Curiosities for Sport

C. B. Hamilton, familiarly known as Bert Hamilton is established in his curiosity shop for the winter. The coal fire is in action and he is ready for a close association of several months with his collection of old magazines, postage stamps, minerals, moths, beetles and more than a score of other strange things. Framing pictures is his vocation.

A room in the shed at his home on Paris street has been made into a den, where he is spending much of his time along with a varied collection made while indulging in various hobbies. On the walls are framed copies of almanacs bearing dates early as 1817, also Confederate and foreign money, old time etchings and lithographs, copies of nickel and dime novels of long ago, pictures, photographs and many other things of interest to worshippers of antiques.

In this stage setting Bert will enjoy the winter and rummage attics for more curiosities. Safely tucked away in a trunk are copies of "Puck" issued during the Blaine-Cleveland campaign, carrying dates in 1884-5. Two or three complete volumes of "The Golden Days," one of the juvenile publications, are among the treasures there. Peterson's and Argosy before Munsy got in his work, are prominent in a large pile of magazines thirty and more years old.

Dime novels under the banned in many homes forty ears ago, bring back memories of secret sessions with Diamond Dick, Nick Carter and other heroes of the wild and wooly type. Slying away to read the forbidden papered covered pamphlets added thrills to many prosaic lives, hampered by the glooomy themes of the so called goody, goody books forced upon the ungsters.

Bert has tried many things in his quest for amusement and recreation. Beginning with collecting old postage stamps and post marks, he soon passed into minerals, flowers and butterflies. Photography was a hobby for a time, then cutting gems attracted his attention.

Another room in the house has been set a part for his choice treasures. A case is filled with minerals and ores from many states and countries. The butterfly and moth cabinet contains a real collection of worth while specimens carefully mounted and arranged in pairs under scientific names. In purchase and exchange he has secured tropical and even arctic beauties that in coloring and size discount any of the handsome moths familiar in this locality. At one time Bert raised his own moths. He collected the caterpillars and waited patiently during the natural transformation of cocoon, imago and eggs. This slow process was given up years ago and something more in keeping with the whirlwind spirit of the age.

In early spring the collector turned his attention to marine subjects. He draughted and constructed a steam boat hull about 40 inches in length. The curves and lines were strictly true to form. The boat caused much interest at the time because of its excellent workmanship and sailing qualities under the power of a miniature steam turbine.

Mr. Hamilton is conserving his health and riding hobbies that suit his temperament. When he picks up a branch of activity, it is a plunge for knowing the thing until a new hobby opens another line of investigation. There is great pleasure and some profit in this game of doing things as the spirit moves and living a normal life with the right kind of a kick.

MRS. ROBINSON ENTERTAINS PAST CHIEFS

The Tigredia Past Chiefs' Association held its November meeting Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Delmore Robinson, Crockett Ridge, and with the husbands of the members as guests, there was a gathering of 23. The dining room was decorated with orange and black streamers and festoons being arranged about the center of the room, which was lighted with Jack-O-Lanterns and spook candles.

A delicious supper was enjoyed, amid much merriment. After supper, the members held their business meeting, while the men enjoyed a smoke talk. One new member was admitted to the Association. After the meeting, there was a program of reading and music, with Victrola musse interspersed.

In the program of games, Mrs. Sadie Lapham won the first prize, the second was a tie between Mrs. Alice Nash and Mrs. Mattie Ordway. Mrs. Sadie Bowser won the "booby." During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were presented with a wedding gift, a piece of silver. Mrs. Donald B. Partridge made the presentation in behalf of the Past Chiefs. Mrs. Mary Kimball assisted Mrs. Robinson in entertaining.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Plans for attaining the goal of more than one hundred members to the local chapter of the American Red Cross for the coming roll call will be formulated this week, ready for the membership campaign which takes place from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every membership helps to support the activities of the local chapter and contributes as well, to the national organization.

The Red Cross exists solely by individual memberships. Fifty cents of every dollar remains with the local chapter, and this means much help among those who are unfortunate. Each week, meetings are being held to make garments for the emergency chest. As the last layette has been given out. This is one way the funds help. Every Red Cross dollar is a useful dollar.

In the last year, the American Red Cross gave aid in 90 domestic disasters. Its chapters and branches stand ready at all times to answer the call of victims of flood, fire, tornado, epidemic, famine, and other forms of catastrophe. Not since the World War has the Red Cross been faced with such demands upon its resources, both local and national, as now confronts it.

The longest and most severe drought on record has effected 681 countries in 23 states and President Hoover has asked the Red Cross to stand by. Our protection, locally and nationally, lies in great membership increase that will rebuild the reserve that may have to be used in this relief work. Join the Red Cross and help locally and nationally.

HELPING BOYS

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

It is such an easy matter to become careless and pay no attention to boys. Men are busy with the affairs of business. Worrying details occupy one's thoughts. Yet, all about us, are boys who need help—the help that comes from an encouraging word, a helping hand, a little boost. All these helpful things take but just a minute of any man's time, and yet they mean so much to a boy.

It does not take long for a boy to grow and develop into a man. It may be that what we may do today will have a big influence on what kind of man he will be. Are we doing the thing that will help the boy? Just a cordial word of greeting in the morning as the boy is on the way to school will frequently give the lad just the needed encouragement for that particular day. Do we do that? Can we truthfully say that we have been the means and channel by which a boy gets inspiration to do better things?

There is so much we can do in boys' work without even having to take any time to do it. Most men are willing to do this if they only realized how easily it can be done.

"No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

NORTH BRIDGTON

Honor Roll With Harrison and Waterford Well Represented

Principal H. H. Sampson at Bridgton Academy, made known Tuesday in chapel the honor roll for the first half term of the fall term. This is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a student at Bridgton Academy and much interest is shown in the scholastic standing of the students. In presenting the honor roll before the student body he spoke of the high scholastic record made by graduates of Bridgton in college last fall and mentioned the fact that there were students in twenty-six different colleges last year and not a failure among any of them certified by the school. Also he read figures which have just been published from the State Department at Augusta, which showed Bridgton Academy to have the highest scholastic record of any of the Maine Preparatory Schools for all students certified into the Maine Colleges last fall. Bridgton graduates in Maine Colleges received 61.15 percentage of honor grades in their first year of college work and there was not a failure in any subject. The nearest school to this figure was one with a percentage of 48.89. Principal Sampson spoke of the high grade of work done by the students entering college this last fall in their first examination of the particular distinction they received in mathematics.

NO SLEEP SUBSTITUTE

The latest quest of over-imaginative scientists is a substitute for sleep. They figure that one-third of life is spent in sleep, and that if one could obtain the restorative effect equivalent to that of slumber from pill or phial, man's active days would run to 24 hours per, instead of the estimated 16. Just so; and if one could find a substitute for death, immortality could be attained.

The Great Designer counted in time for sleep when he measured man's span of life and science cannot beat the game of a substitute. This is one of those scientific quests that make reactionaries of Abyssinia experimenters whom Rasselas found searching for dyes, that, when spread over flies fed to spiders, would result in the spinning of colored webs by their devourers. Cucumbers still contain sunshine and rainbows yield pots of gold, but only to the poet.

AWAY—Edgar Daniel Kramer

She is not dead! She has gone away
Into the joys of a sweeter day
She gently smiled and waved her hand,
Then went away to a fairer land.
And we whose hearts in anguish burn
For her kindly voice and glad return
Must think of her as finding there
The wonders of love beyond compare.
So sweet, so kind, she always smiled
With the artlessness of a little child;
So true, so brave, the whole day long
The home would ring with her gladsome song;
And when she lay on her bed of pain,
She neither murmured nor made complain,
But seemed like a flower that greets the sun
With a cheery face till its day is done.
She is not dead! She only sleeps
Where the trailing wild-rose softly creeps.
We must not say, we can not say
That she is dead—she has gone away.

1920-7. The old Socony Motor Oil . . . a splendid lubricant for the motor of that period. Outsold all others in New York and New England.

SOCONY MOTOR OIL

Perfected ...proved in every way!
(Even better than "AIRCRAFT" for your car)

THIS is an announcement so important to every automobile owner that we put aside all technical language and tell it to you in the simplest words.

We have produced the new Socony Motor Oil which gives you—to a greater degree than any other—what you want and should have in a motor oil. . . . full lubricating value.

In the new Socony Motor Oil "full lubricating value" means something more than it ever has meant before. For we have perfected and proved for you not just one or two but every characteristic a motor oil should have.

We have worked for more than two and a half years developing this finer lubricant. We have had at our disposal the most highly trained engineers and the most modern research laboratories. We have had the pick of the choicest crude oils and the most up-to-date refineries in the United States. We have had the benefit of 55 years of experience in the manufacture of lubricating oils.

We sincerely believe you will find the new Socony Motor Oil the ideal lubricant for your motor. We invite you, we urge you, to try it.

5 reasons for changing today to the New Socony Motor Oil

1. Perfected Lubrication. Less wear on your motor. The new Socony Motor Oil is made from a Paraffine Base crude, selected because of its greater inherent oiliness (adsorption). Refined by the new and exclusive Socony Process which gives additional lubricating value.

2. Minimum Oil Consumption. Will not break down. No engine heat or pressure severe enough to decompose this oil or destroy its lubricating value. Only through contamination by foreign matter which finds its way into the crankcase can the life of this oil be limited.

3. Easy Starting in Coldest Weather. Selected Paraffine Base Oil . . . completely dewaxed. More fluid at low temperatures than any other oil. Instant lubrication. Less drain on your battery.

4. Fuel Economy and Increased Power. Maintains proper "body" at all engine temperatures. Result: perfect piston seal, maximum power, minimum fuel consumption.

5. A Clean Motor. New refining process reduces to a minimum all harmful elements which cause carbon, gum and sludge. The new Socony Motor Oil insures a clean motor.

Every statement regarding the superiority of the new Socony Motor Oil is substantiated by actual performance tests in the air, on land, and on the water—certified by recognized authorities.

CHAPTER XXIII

The Old Hunter, Sam Dunbar Takes the Front of the Stage

A constant caller at the express office for a chat with Tom every time he came down to the village from the northern country was the great hunter and trapper, Sam Dunbar. He was a character, almost in the same class as J. Fennimore Cooper's noted leather-stocking, Natty Bumppo.

The times in which these hunters lived were totally different. In Bumppo's time the forest was full of fierce wild beasts—the most savage of which had disappeared from the vicinity of the habitations of men long before Dunbar's day. But in the natural make-up of the two backwoodsmen, Dunbar was Bumppo's peer, if not his superior, for he had a streak of wit and humor in him, that the other never possessed.

THE OLD HUNTER

As a lover of the forest, with a knowledge of woodcraft and the habits of wild animals, Sam had no equal in all the back country, where he lived and was literally monarch of all he surveyed. He was unmarried and his little farm which he occupied, or more properly stayed at during short intervals—for he was at his camp on a public lot over which he was fire warden the greater part of the time—was in the town of Sackville. It will be remembered that he had invited Tom and Charley to spend a few days with him at his camp before winter set in. His last call at the express office was on Saturday afternoon following Thanksgiving day. He told Tom if he and Charley were to take an outing with him hunting and fishing it shouldn't be put off any longer and they ought to start early the next Monday morning. He said that the Indian summer, which had set in, was just the best time for hunting and fishing of the whole year as the red men, before the coming of the whites thought and acted upon. Charley and Mr. Benton were consulted and the son being very anxious for a little vacation in the woods, his father consented to let him go and it was decided to put Miss Ada Turner in his place in the bank. The express company was induced to send a man to look after the business with some assistance from Bob, while Tom was away.

As Tom and Charley were not expert hunters with the rifle, Sam advised them to borrow a couple of shot guns and take a supply of shot for what might be needed. He said he had all the fishing tackle that would be required at the camp. For provisions Tom and Charley insisted upon taking with them an ample quantity of eatables consisting of potatoes, onions, white bread, pilot bread, cheese, butter, condensed milk and cream, pickles, salt, coffee and sugar. Sam said he had some fine eating apples, pears, peaches and grapes. They were also to carry with them blankets and pillows.

Jim and Victor were wild to go with Tom and Charley, but Bob didn't care to be one of the party. Sam had seen the boys at the express office and liked them—particularly Jim, who looked up to him as a mighty Nimrod that could encounter the fiercest of wild beasts and slay them. Sam said he was willing to have them go if their parents consented to it. The boys went off on the run to learn their fate, for they felt that a week's outing in the woods with Tom and Charley and a great hunter would be the most important event of their lives. Victor was soon back with the to him, welcome news that his father and mother had consented for him to go if Tom would take special charge of him. Of course Tom assented to it. Jim did not return so soon, but when he did he was almost on the verge of crying, so great was his disappointment at his mother's objection to his going. "Come with me, kiddy," said Sam, upon seeing how badly the boy felt, "an' we'll see 'bout this." Sam, holding Jim by the hand, started for Mrs. Gordon's. Jim almost sobbed as he said: "Mother is afraid—I'll get shot—or hurt. I did so much—want to go and see you shoot a bear—or a catamount, Mr. Dunbar. I've never before seen—such a mighty hunter as you are."

"Don't feel so bad, kiddy," exclaimed Sam soothingly, "I think I kin fix it all right fer yer."

"Oh can you, Mr. Dunbar? Gee, that will be great if you can."

Mrs. Gordon came to the door in response to Jim's telling her that a man had called to see her and he said: "Mother, this is the great hunter, Mr. Dunbar." "Call me Sam, kiddy," Sam interrupted. "It ain't natral fer me tu be mistered." —and Mrs. Gordon broke in with: "Come into the house, won't you, Mr. Dunbar?"

"'Scuse me, marm, I must be gettin' back home. Yer boy wants ter go campin' out with us fer a few days. Lawyer Whiting's boy is goin' an' it will be too bad fer yer kiddy to stay at home now his heart is set on goin'. The kiddies won't be in ther way. They kin fish as well as eny uv us an' git ther wood and water an' wash ther dishes an' help us bring the game out uv the woods. It'll be a great time in ther lives. I'll see that Jim don't git hurt. Why I-I like the boy. Hadn't yer better let him go with us, marm?"

"Why Mr. Dunbar," she stammered—Sam interrupting: "Call me Sam ef yer plese")—"if you really want him to go, and he won't be in your way—and as Mr. Whiting's boy is going—and you'll see that he don't get hurt or shot, I think I'll let him go."

Sam was about to return to the express office with Jim when the widow asked him to wait a minute while she went back into the house. She soon reappeared with some doughnuts in a paper bag. "Try one now, Mr. Dunbar," she said. "I pride myself on my cooking." He did so and exclaimed, "By Cripes they air good, I vow. Thanks, marm. Good arternoon!" She had the last word:

"If your name is Sam, mine is Hannah. Come and take dinner with us whenever you are in town. You can then see what kind of a cook I am."

He lifted his coon skin cap as a parting salute and bowed as he turned away. When they were out of her hearing, Jim said: "Oh Mr.—Sam, you have done it. I never see mother give up so easily before. But gee ain't this great that I'm going to be with you in the woods?"

"Yes kiddy. Next week it's you an' me fer a few days. But them ere doughnuts thet yer marm has fried air mighty toothsome."

"Oh that's nothing to what mother can cook. If you take dinner with us when you come to town as she has asked you to, you will see that she can't be beat at cooking."

"We'll see 'bout thet later, kiddy." replied Sam. There is no doubt that Sam greatly relished the doughnuts.

On coming into the village, as was the custom of backwoodsmen of that period, he had lunched on crackers and cheese at a grocery store.

Sam had hiked it from his farm to town, but Charley was determined that he shouldn't go home on foot, and when Sam was ready to start, Charley asked him if he would like to take a ride with him in his car.

"I jolly would fer I hev never rid in such a shebang before in all my lifetime, Capn' Benton."

"Then jump in Sam and we'll be off."

Sam clambered into the car and took a seat beside Charley.

"Whar air yer goin' tu hed ther critter fer?" he asked.

"Out on the Boston road, Sam, where I can show you how smart it can spin over the ground." After he had cleared the streets of the village, Charley put the car to its top speed. Sam was amazed at the rate he was being taken over the road, the road in places not being over smooth he clutched hold of the seat he was on as though he feared he might be thrown out. His long hair below his coon skin cap streamed out behind his head like an Indian's scalp lock in a gale. Sam, gasping for breath, wheezed: "Whar—wud—we go tu—if we—struck suthin'?"

'God only knows, Sam. It's an eighty-five mile clip. But keep your hold on the racer and your nether garment on old fellow. I'm going to slack up soon."

'God—in heaven—I—hope—so," came in gasps from Sam. Charley saw about a quarter of a mile ahead a road crossing the one they were on, being a good place to turn around, he gradually slackened speed and came to a stop at the four corners. Then he started up and turned around and stopped again while Sam asked: "How fer air we frum home, Capn'?" "About ten miles. Why Sam?"

"Oh nothing much. Ef it wasn't so derned fer I'd foot it back."

"Oh no, Sam, we won't make such fast time going back. I was just showing you that there is no such time smasher around this part of the country as this racer of mine."

"Wal, Cap'n, I'll be a standin' witness tu thet fact when yer need anythin' ter back it up," Charley laughed, and taking a couple of cigars from his pocket and a card of matches, handed them to the backwoodsman, saying:

Here, take these Sam, with my compliments in honor of the occasion. Light one and have a good smoke and enjoy yourself."

"Thotful, Cap'n. Guess yer mean well but thet was ther most hair rainin' ride I ever want to experience agin."

'Sam, you are a character, Tom and I are honored in having you for an acquaintance."

"I'm afeared Cap'n, yer air onered by very small pertaters."

"Not a bit of it Sam. You have got more sound sense in that head of yours than half a dozen of the pimps and stuck up fellows, and Tom and I know it."

"Gled yer du, Cap'n"—puff—puff—'This is mighty good. No five center, this ain't."

'No, Sam, it's a twenty-five center. When we are with the real quality, we don't hand out twisted poke berry leaves, but the real article."

"I guess that's so, Cap'n"—puff—puff.

When they passed the express office on their way to Sackville, Tom noticed that Sam was puffing away contentedly at his cigar, while Charley had a broad smile on his face. After they had got out into the open country and Sam's cigar had dwindled to small proportions, he inquired:

"Don't smoke, eh Cap'n?"

"No, never seemed to like it and never learned to use tobacco in any form." Makes one's breath offensive—especially to ladies."

"Then yer like 'em?"

"One only, Sam, and her mighty well."

"Drink, praps?"

"Only spring water and such pure stuff as flows out of these ridges and hills."

'Ever heard ther story 'bout Abe Lincoln an' ther stage driver?"

"Don't know, Sam. There are so many of the Lincoln stories in circulation that one never can tell till he hears it. What was this one?"

"This was when Abe was a lawyer and was goin' from one cort to another. Abe rid on ther seat with ther driver. Ther stage driver asked him tu take a chaw uv terbacker. Abe sed 'No he didn't chew'. Arterwards he offered him a segar, but Abe sed he didn't smoke. At a place where he stopped tu licker up ther driver asked Abe tu git down from his seat an' go with him an' take a drink. Abe sed he didn't drink. Ther stage driver looked at Abe a minit in great astonishment an' sed: 'Look here, Mister, I've noticed when a man hes no small vices, he hesn't gut any very big virtues."

Charley laughed and replied: "I guess Lincoln made up that yarn for the occasion. He was famous for that sort of thing. He was next to the Great George, however, the wisest and best man America has ever produced. I see the point, Sam, and its a good one. But here we are at your place—No bouquets please"—Sam was expressing his thanks for his ride—"an' them segars air prime an' "—but Charley's car was moving swiftly away after he had said: "See you Monday, Sam."

The hunter muttered to himself as Charley went out of sight: "He's a prime good feller an' means well, but I'd ruther take my chances with a bear or a wildcat then in his car when goin' at its top speed over a ruff road."

FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

The Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation has both hands out in welcome for the coming annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation to be held in Boston, Dec. 8, 9, and 10. One hand is for its associates in the Northeastern group of states, the other is for the Farm Bureau members who will come from all over the nation. Those in the first group will join with the Massachusetts members in being hosts and will do all things possible to make the visit to the Atlantic seaboard a memorable one.

The annual sessions of the Federation will be, as usual, devoted strictly to business. There is work of great national significance and importance to be done. In accordance with the wishes of the officers there will be no distractions during the actual convention hours. However, in this Tercentenary year no trip to Massachusetts could be conducted without visiting some of the historic shrines and before and after regular sessions the guests will be taken to Bunker Hill, Concord, Lexington and other spots of historic interest.

Secretary Russell of the Massachusetts Federation is receiving daily indications of the number of Farm Bureau people who are planning to attend the big meetings. Maine Farm Bureaus, although not officially members of the American Federation, have all been invited and a good turnout is expected from that state. New Hampshire hopes to send a long train of busses full of loyal members living all the way from the Canada line to Massachusetts. Every county in Vermont is sending at least ten official delegates and innumerable others are planning to drive in. Massachusetts can be depended upon to flock into Boston for the three days. Rhode Island and Connecticut are also within easy driving distance and will be well represented. Large delegations are also expected from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

All these Farm Bureau folks from these ten states will be "in the receiving line" throughout the convention. They will serve as hosts and join with Massachusetts in the happy responsibility of showing the rest of the country what a lot of fine farm people there are in the East. The slogan "Eat beans with us in Boston", is a symbol of the warmest kind of hospitality. It will also be a literal fact as one of the important opening events is a baked bean supper on the Saturday evening preceding the regular meetings.

The first guests will begin coming into Boston by December 5 as there is a preliminary meeting of the women. All day Friday and Saturday, Dec. 5 and 6, they will have an interesting program, including such speakers as: Hon. James Stone, Federal Farm Board, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lenna Yost, Chairman Women's Division National Republican Committee; Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, Chairman Women's Division National Democratic Committee.

FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

The Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation holds out in welcome for its annual meeting of the New England Farm Bureau Federation to be held in Boston, Dec. 8, 9, and 10. This is for its associates in the Northeastern group of states, the other Farm Bureau members who will join all over the nation. Those in the group will join with the Massachusetts members in being hosts and doing all things possible to make the visit to the Atlantic seaboard a memorable one.

C.; Mrs. Lenna Yost, Chairman Women's Division National Republican Committee; Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, Chairman Women's Division National Democratic Committee; and Miss Grace Abbott, Child Labor Bureau, Washington, D. C. Their meetings will culminate in a great gathering in historic old Faneuil Hall with addresses on "The American Farm Woman and the New Day" by Mrs. Frank Evans of Salt Lake City, and one on "The American Home and Law Observance" by Judge Florence Allen of Columbus, Ohio.

The great majority of the delegates will probably be in Boston by Saturday night and on Sunday special services will be held at King's Chapel and at the Old North Church. The general sessions of the American Farm Bureau Federation will continue through Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with hardly an interruption.

One of the "side shows" of the meeting will be an exhibit of the agricultural products of New England staged by the various state departments of agriculture. It promises to be the most varied and characteristic of any such exhibit in years as the New England leaders hope to impress their guests from the West with the variety and excellence of New England products.

Invitations to attend this big meeting are being broadcasted throughout the northeastern states. The meetings will be a great opportunity to get a broad view of the larger aspects of agriculture in this nation. "Eat beans with us" is merely a form of invitation to one of the most important agricultural gatherings held in the East in years. It is just another way of saying that everyone will be welcome.

IN THE USUAL WAY

By W. H. Lord

You start your task with an aim in view,
To achieve, to accomplish, whatever you do;
You care not, you fret not,
For the weather or day,
But keep ever going in the usual way.

There is not one moment lost in sight,
Nor is there one action which you think not right;
But you work and you sweat,
While quite often you say,
"I sure hope this is done in the usual way."

"Oh, never mind," your neighbor will jeer,
"The shirker or loafer to goal strives to near;
Just try hard and work hard,
And don't worry for pay,"
So the worker keeps on in the usual way.

Legion Play

"A Thief in the Night"

Early in December will be staged one of the outstanding dramatic productions of the fall and winter under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary. The title, "A Thief in the Night", so suggestive of mystery, embodies in its action not only that, but an element of good clean comedy, woven into a stern plot of a hardy character, not generally expected from this type of show. Played by the Carroll Players it brought forth a press comment of "One of their best, clean, wholesome, with a rich vein of comedy and plot concealed to the last. A super did evenings entertainment".

With the foregoing comment on the show to work upon, the management has secured the following local personages to bring out the several characterizations. "Don" Partridge in a dual role, has one of the important male parts with Dan Evirs, in a part of real pep and punch. You will enjoy Eleanor Wood in her character impersonation, as you will Parnell Cole, flippant and fiery. You can laugh wholeheartedly at Glenn M. Bryant in his seriousness and not hurt his feelings. Norman Greenlaw will please you in a character part, which you will admit he knows how to handle. A newcomer, John Flynn, is a valuable addition to the cast whom you all know and like. The cast is completed by Harold A. Andrews who is also coach and director.

Watch for the date, buy your tickets and then settle back and let the Legion Auxiliary with their corps of helping women do their stuff.
